
CahillNXT Lauded in Chambers FinTech 2025

Date: 12/11/24

CahillNXT, Cahill's Digital Assets and Emerging Technology practice, has been ranked among the leading law firms in the areas of Crypto-Asset Disputes and FinTech Legal: Blockchain & Cryptocurrencies in the Chambers FinTech 2025 guide.

Clients praised the team for possessing “deep experience in blockchain-related matters” and “an in-depth understanding of blockchain technology and its surrounding ecosystems, which enables them to navigate the intricacies of the law profoundly and insightfully.”

CahillNXT co-chairs Lewis Cohen and Samson Enzer were also highly ranked in their respective categories.

Lewis earned a Band 1 ranking in FinTech Legal: Blockchain & Cryptocurrencies and was noted by clients as “a legend in the blockchain legal sector,” “a thought leader in the industry,” and “a brilliant capital markets and securities lawyer” with “strategic foresight and commitment to the crypto community.”

Sam earned Band 2 and Band 4 rankings in Crypto-Asset Disputes and FinTech Legal: Blockchain & Cryptocurrencies, respectively. He was celebrated as “incredible,” with clients noting that Sam “has a really good way of just explaining things, especially to business teams. He has an inside perspective on how the SEC works.” “He offers amazing value for his services ... [and] takes time to work on every single matter that comes through his door, no matter what.” “[He] understands the law very well and how to apply it to business decisions. You feel like you are working not only with a lawyer, but a holistic concierge when you are working with him.”
